Today in Ag

with Jimmy Clark

LISTEN MONDAY-FRIDAY
12-NOON!

Let's Talk About Agriculture

"I actually love putting up hay, especially alfalfa. It's the smell of alfalfa when you're baling it. There's no other smell like it in the world." That's what Jimmy Clark said when asked why he loves agriculture. But his love of ag goes beyond the five senses. "I love the unity of the farming community," Jimmy said. "The way folks help each other out." Jimmy is bringing his love of the land to 96.5FM KECO weekdays at noon with his new show, "Today in Agriculture, With Jimmy Clark."

A cattle customer who is also a friend—he and I tease each other a lot—had a stroke about a year ago so he does walk a little slower but is basically doing pretty good.

He has definitely slowed down but he said to me, "But I think you have slowed down a little too." I said, "Really?" He said, "Yes, watching you go back and forth in the ring I used to say you acted like a border collie." I said, "Really, how do I act now?" He said, "Like an English bulldog." I said, "What does that kind of a dog look like?" He said, "Bow-legged and slow."

We had a good sale again on Tuesday selling some good young pairs up to $2,275. They were gentle and nice—two combinations when buying a bred cow, a pair or selecting heifers to breed.

Woodward Livestock Auction

900 Lakeview Dr, Woodward, OK | Jerry Nine 800.442.5548

Our area Sunday night and Monday morning received some nice rain. I heard all the way from six-tenths to 1 inch. However, one of the guys at the breakfast table said he got 2 inches.

We said, "Are you sure?" He said, "I know I did because my cattle guard was plumb full of water." Some of us farmers have different measuring devices.

I got this one marriage tip and I think it was the best advice I ever received. A friend of mine said never ask your wife when dinner will be ready while she is still mowing the lawn.

My wife said she went to the paint store to get thinner. It didn't work.

An old woman was sipping on a glass of wine while sitting on the patio with her husband. She said, "I love you so much. I don't know how I could ever like without you." Her husband said, "Is that you or the wine talking?" She replied, "It's me talking to the wine."

My wife was going through her wardrobe. She said, "Look at this, it still fits me after 25 years." I said, "It's a scarf."

One ole cowboy was lying in bed with his wife. He reached and put his hand on her leg. She hollered, "Good Lord, not now—it's three in the morning." He said, "Oh, I wasn't thinking about anything like that. I was just wondered what time it was."

Editor's note: Jerry Nine, Woodward, Oklahoma, is a lifetime cattleman who grew up on his family's ranch near Slapout, Oklahoma.

Understanding What We Read

FOR STUDENTS OF THE BIBLE FEW THERE BE

Are we required to assemble in a big church with multitudes of people in order to please God? Here is what the Lord has to say about the matter: "For where two or three are gathered in my name, there am I in the midst of them (Matt 18:20)." The Lord is not looking for a big group of people. He said that if as few as two or three get together to study His word, He will be there with them. What great comfort that is! Don't ever feel you are alone with the Lord just because you are few. In fact, the Lord said the following about a small crowd: "Because strait is the gate (the truth), and narrow is the way (no room for error), the way (way of truth), which leadeth unto life (Eternal life on earth), and FEW there be that find it (Matt 7:14)." The Lord knew, in the latter days before he returned, there would be few interested in His word. He gave an example of such when he spoke of the days of Noah and what it would be like in the end times upon the Earth: "And as it was in the days of Noe, so shall it be also in the days of the Son of man (day when Jesus returns). They (the majority) did eat, they drank, they married wives, they were given in marriage, until the ark, and the flood came, and destroyed them all (Luke 17:26, 27)." In other words, life was going on as usual until the flood came and destroyed the majority. Look at the few who were saved in Noah's day. For back in Noah's day: "God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the Earth, and the every imagination of the thoughts of his heart (or mind) was only evil continually (Gen 6:5)." How many were found righteous in the eyes of God when he destroyed the Earth with water? "Which in the days of Noah, while the ark was preparing, wherein few, that is, eight souls were saved by water (I Peter 3:20)." So don't be despaired by a few who are following the word. The Lord tells us the following about the few: "Fear not little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom (Luke 12:32)." Study the word and remember "Prove all things..."

Altosid IGR Mineral Tub

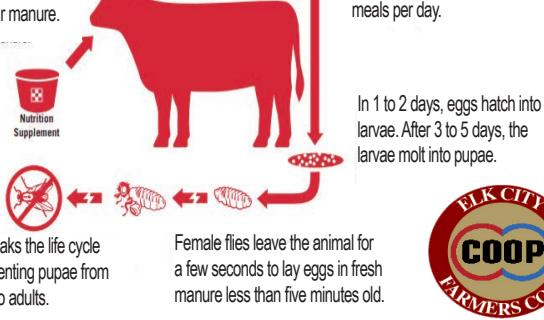

It's a fact! The constant biting of horn flies inflicts excessive stress on cattle. Fly counts can reach up to 2000 flies per animal, taking up to a gallon of blood in a 135-day fly season. Control horn flies all season with Altosid IGR Wind & Rain Mineral Tub and you will see a difference in your heard. Begin putting Altosid IGR out in the spring. Continue feeding Altosid IGR throughout the summer until 30 days after the first frost to help prevent horn flies.

WIND AND RAIN® STORM® FLY CONTROL MINERAL CONTAINS ALTOSID®

ALTOSID® IGR SOLUTION

Altosid is ingested with cattle's mineral or feed. As they graze, cattle disperse IGR via their manure.

Adult horn flies live 2 to 4 weeks, taking 20 to 30 blood meals per day.
In 1 to 2 days, eggs hatch into larvae. After 3 to 5 days, the larvae molt into pupae.
Female flies leave the animal for a few seconds to lay eggs in fresh manure less than five minutes old.
Altosid breaks the life cycle here, preventing pupae from molting into adults.

FEATURED STRAIN OF THE MONTH!

STORM CHASER

STORM CHASER (hybrid) is a cross of Skywalker x Kosher Chem x Zookies, which makes it a wonderful heavy indica strain. It's great for insomnia, as well as anxiety, ADHD, bipolar disorder, migraines, and PMS. It's particularly effective at pain relief. The taste is pungent and sweet, with earthy tones. The indica stress relief of this versatile strain makes it a good choice for patients looking for some mental and physical relief. This strain is great for your mind and body! EXPLORING ENERGY NEWS

North America's Energy Corridor-Part 1

Energy Talk

Mexico recently had national elections. The elections are critical to the oil and gas sectors. Several years ago, Mexico had gone from being nationalized to entertaining more privatization of its energy sector. The election was not only looking at the 500 seats of the lower house, but also local elections and governors in fifteen states.

Several years ago, I had the opportunity of serving on an advisory committee appointed by the Mexico Trade Commissioner, who was based in the Dallas regional office. Comprised of U.S. and Mexico business representatives, the advisory committee focused on trade and tourism between Mexico and the U.S. One issue addressed by the committee was U.S. and Mexico energy relations.

Since 1938, Mexico had been under strict governmental guidelines with no privatization in place. As I stated in my book, The Braking Point, "the first sign of changing of the guard came in 1938 when Mexico President Lazaro Cardenas nationalized the nation's oil." In August of 2013, President Enrique Pena Nieto proposed a plan to open Mexico's oil and gas sector to foreign investments through private-public partnerships.

Since that time, I was interviewed for an article in the Wall Street Journal's (WSJ) Market-Watch regarding the issue of why foreign oil forms should look to Mexico.

The following are some of the questions and answers discussed in that interview.

1) From an energy commodity standpoint, what does an open Mexico energy market mean – would opening that market up be substantial for oil or natural gas? How so?

At that time, there had been an oil production decline in Mexico. The country had strong potential to enhance oil and gas production by the support of U.S. technology alone. With U.S. technology and expertise, Mexico and North America could have potentially benefitted in a very positive way. With that said, there were a lot of details to work out.

2) How long, realistically, might it have taken to get the proposal approved? What was involved?

Since the WSJ interview, Mexico's Congress passed constitutional amendments overturning the nationalization of the oil industry. Introducing a private-public partnership was new to a country that had not allowed the needed expertise to advance the economic benefits. Therefore, many U.S. companies were interested in the potential opportunities but with caution especially in what were the early stages.

3) How long was it before foreign companies jumped in and how willing were they to participate in

Mark A. Stansberry

Mexico? It appeared that many U.S. companies were interested in the potential, but there had to be certainty of stability before they spent the billions of dollars necessary for oil and gas development.

4) Which nations or companies would this have benefited the most and why?

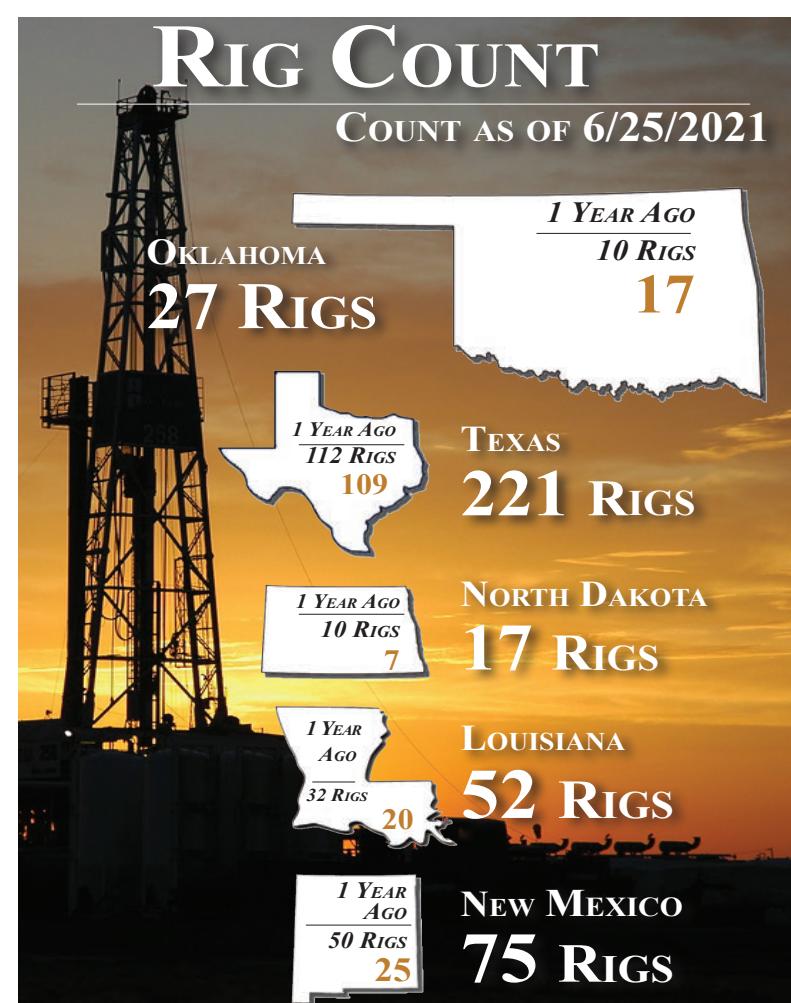

Service and supply companies in the early stages likely would have benefited the most. There was a question to be addressed about whether only majors would be involved or if there would be opportunities for others to enter the market.

During the week of August 2nd, 2014, legislation was passed in Mexico's Congress which finalized the opening up of Mexico's energy sector for privatization. This legislation was welcomed by U.S. energy companies wanting opportunities in Mexico. Though the regulations surrounding Mexico's energy development continued to be worked out, there was definitely cautious optimism.

Infrastructure was very important to the success of Mexico's energy development. No doubt, it would take U.S. technology and expertise to move Mexico's energy development efforts forward.

I continue with the message that America Needs America's Energy. I have also advocated that the U.S. needs secure neighbors in Mexico and Canada. Together, we can create the People's Energy Plan!

Future generations are depending on us to keep the American dream alive, America needs America's Energy!
