Weather and strong cattle market story of week

Jerry Nine - January 10, 2025

Well for some people who like cold weather, I guess you should be very happy. I hope some of you also liked that 40 miles per hour wind that came with it earlier in the week.

This morning a friend of mine acted like he was cold, and I looked at him and thought now how could you be cold? And after I asked him that question, he asked me if I needed a little Ivomec. It seems like I heard years ago that sarcasm will get you nowhere. That isn't true because it has put me on several people's lists.

How many weeks can we quote the cattle market being $3 to $6 higher with instances of $15 higher? On Monday I saw a black heifer weighing 410 pounds that brought $3.90 per hundredweight. Just in case your calculator doesn't work, that is $1,599 per head. The average price on a heifer weighing 710 pounds was $255.07, which is $1,811 per head. That is a $212 difference. I'm sure that small heifer was put with some others that were cheaper, but in my world, there is vaccine, trucking and the risk of keeping her alive.

A friend of mine said the feedlot manager called him and asked if he had ever sold any $2 a pound fat cattle before. He said, "No." The feedlot manager said, "Well you are going to this week." The interesting thing to me about beef reaching all-time highs is I don't hear anything about the talk of "Is it getting too high for the consumer?"

On that $1,600 calf, the interest for five months is more than $50 per head. Or am I the only one paying interest?

One area the beef industry is getting beat at is the food case at convenience stores. Almost all the items are chicken.

At the airport the other day, I was standing by an elderly couple. His wife appeared not to be the smiling type. I heard him say to her, "It's crowded enough we might not get to sit by each other." Then he looked over at me and smiled.

If you have a child who seems to think he or she wants to get married earlier than you think he or she should, and perhaps that child talks about wanting kids, I have the perfect remedy. Buy him or her an airplane ticket and sit that child next to three screaming kids, and I promise you that will take the desire out of that child. I never wanted to spank someone else's kids more in my life. Either those kids needed muzzles, or I needed ear plugs.

Arctic Blast Set to Bring Bitter Cold to Western Oklahoma – Again

January 13, 2025 - Residents of Western Oklahoma should prepare for a significant drop in temperatures this weekend as an arctic blast moves into the region. The National Weather Service (NWS) in Norman has issued a warning for below-average temperatures beginning Saturday night and lasting into next week.

Key Highlights:

High Probability of Below-Freezing Highs: Areas such as Clinton and Oklahoma City have a high probability (78-89%) of temperatures remaining below freezing (32°F) on Sunday, with chances tapering off farther south.

Dangerous Wind Chills: Breezy north winds are expected to create wind chills that feel like single digits or below zero by Sunday morning. The combination of wind and cold air will increase the risk of frostbite and hypothermia for those exposed for prolonged periods.

Uncertainty in Precipitation: While there is a chance for wintry precipitation by Sunday, confidence remains low regarding the type and amount of precipitation that could affect the area. Stay updated for more specific forecasts as the system develops.

The NWS also noted that the duration and severity of this cold weather depend on upper-level atmospheric patterns that are still uncertain. Regardless, residents should take precautions and prepare for the extreme cold.

Tips for Staying Safe:

Ensure all exposed pipes are insulated and dripping to prevent freezing.

Keep pets indoors and limit outdoor activities for yourself and others.

Check on neighbors, especially the elderly or those with limited access to heating.

Stock up on emergency supplies in case of power outages.

Communities in Western Oklahoma, including Clinton, Elk City, and Altus, are encouraged to monitor weather updates closely and prepare for potential disruptions caused by the severe cold. Stay tuned to KECO 96.5 FM and local news outlets for real-time weather updates.
