Sprinkles, Steers, and Slip-ups

by: Jerry Nine – Woodward, Okla.

The preacher that teaches Sunday school said to all of us in a group text that he will see us Sunday. I texted the group chat back and said, “OK, I’ll start saddling my horse,” but with spell check or my fat fingers I sent I’ll start saddling my house. I better start checking my text before I send it, because with my vocabulary no telling what I might send.

My daughter just called and said 2 crackheads beat up her boyfriend. That makes me mad because I paid 3.

Running in your 60s is great way to meet people. Today I met 2 paramedics, 3 nurses, a cardiologist, and almost met Jesus.

I saved $498.25 tonight by getting the toilet paper myself at walmart instead of my wife getting it.

Editor’s note: The views expressed here are the author’s own and do not represent the view of The Penny News. Jerry Nine, Woodward, Oklahoma, is a lifetime cattleman who grew up on his family’s ranch near Slapout, Oklahoma.

I just checked the weather forecast on my phone, and for most of the rest of the month it says a 0% up to 4% chance of rain. A few days ago they predicted a good chance of rain. The only thing they forgot to say was that it was going to be a sprinkle, not a rain. I’ve always heard it will rain just before it is too late, so I guess it’s not too late yet. But I would have to admit we have had pretty weather.

Last week at the auction, some very nice black steers that were long weaned brought over $3,000. Truthfully, more than they should have. But you know what, sometimes happens if 2 guys get to fighting over the same bunch. They weighed 555 pounds. Then their bigger brothers came in behind them weighing 687 pounds and brought $210 per head less. From the stand point of cattle auction, there are some things you just can’t explain to the seller, and in my 23 years as owner the seller never once thought the smaller were too high. But they would say, how in the heck can they bring that much less and be bigger.

At the sale last week, my 3rd son was working on the scales, and his job was to drive them to the ring after they were weighed. He couldn’t get one to come into the ring. Pretty soon his words came out loud and clear, “Get the blank out of here.” Then a friend hollered over at me and said, “I wonder where he learned that word?” So I had to say, “he learned it from his mother.”

Rapid Response Stops Multiple Grass Fires in Roger Mills County Amid Ongoing Drought

January 19, 2026 • Roger Mills County, OK—A coordinated, county-wide emergency response helped stop four grass fires Friday afternoon, Jan. 16, with minimal damage despite ongoing drought conditions and elevated fire danger.

According to information provided by Roger Mills County Emergency Management, Friday had been declared a “war day,” prompting heightened fire readiness across the county. Preparations began Thursday with road graders pre-positioned throughout Roger Mills County, water tankers staged at all three district yards, and all eight county fire departments placed on all-call status. Volunteer departments were staffed or had personnel on standby to respond quickly. The advance planning paid off Friday afternoon.

At 3:18 p.m., the National Weather Service issued a satellite-based hot spot detection north of Durham. Crawford Fire Department was dispatched immediately and was already en route before the first public report of smoke came in at 3:30 p.m. At that time, all departments were paged to their stations. Crawford and Reydon units responded along with a county road grader that was parked less than a mile away. The fire was quickly brought under control. While crews were refilling water tanks, a second grass fire with a structure threatened was reported within five miles of the first fire. Within five minutes, six to seven fire units and a grader were on scene, with a second grader en route.

That fire was also contained quickly, preventing damage to nearby property.

At 5:24 p.m., departments were dispatched to a third fire one mile south of Roll. Crawford and Reydon responded from the Durham area, joined by Strong City, Cheyenne, Berlin, Sweetwater, and Leedey fire departments. Hammon remained on standby to protect the east side of the county. Two graders assisted fire crews, and forward progress of the fire was stopped shortly after arrival.

Less than 30 minutes later, at 5:49 p.m., departments were dispatched to a fourth fire approximately 3.5 miles east of Durham. Leedey, Sweetwater, Berlin, Crawford, and Reydon units, along with a grader, were diverted from the Roll area while Strong City and Cheyenne continued mop-up operations. That fire was also quickly brought under control.

By 7:45 p.m., all four fires were fully extinguished and units were able to return home. No structures were lost, and total grass loss across all fires was estimated at 100 acres or less. Although the fires were considered suspicious in nature, the early detection, fast response, and coordinated effort prevented a more serious situation. Officials credited the outcome to strong preplanning, the dedication of volunteer firefighters and county employees, and assistance from the Roger Mills County Sheriff’s Office, Oklahoma Highway Patrol, and county dispatch. Dispatchers were credited for providing clear, calm, and concise directions during a very busy and stressful day.

The fires occurred as drought conditions continue to expand across much of Oklahoma. The latest U.S. Drought Monitor shows the Panhandle and far northwest Oklahoma remain largely free of dry conditions. However, southwestern and southern Oklahoma have seen increases in drought intensity. Extreme drought increased from 6.92 percent of the state the previous week to 7.44 percent. Areas classified as abnormally dry also grew, rising from 80.85 percent to 82.14 percent statewide, while moderate drought coverage declined slightly.

Looking ahead, western Oklahoma is expected to see cold and potentially hazardous weather through the weekend. Friday is forecast to bring daytime highs in the mid to upper 30s, with rain possibly changing to freezing rain or snow, especially in northwest areas. Winds will increase, and icy conditions may develop. Overnight lows are expected to fall into the low teens. Saturday will remain very cold, with highs in the low 20s and lows again near the teens. Mostly cloudy skies and periods of snow are possible, and wind chills will make conditions feel even colder. Officials urge residents to use caution, avoid outdoor burning, and remain alert to changing weather and fire conditions. Travel could become slick in spots if winter precipitation accumulates.

Rep. Nick Archer outlines energy priorities ahead of 2026 legislative session

January 16, 2026 • Elk City, OK—With the 2026 Regular Session set to begin Monday, February 2, members of the Oklahoma House are finalizing bill filings and committee agendas. Rep. Nick Archer (R-Elk City) recently shared insight into that process during an appearance on Exploring Energy on KECO 96.5 FM.

As Chair of the House Energy Committee, Archer said all energy related legislation must first move through his committee before advancing in the House. He noted, however, that not every issue people commonly label as “energy” is handled there.

“There is also a Utilities Committee,” Archer said. “Sometimes people will say, ‘that’s an energy bill,’ and the way the House views it, that’s actually a utility. There’s some nuance there.”

Archer also explained how bill limits work for House members. Outside of leadership positions like Speaker or Budget Chair, representatives are limited to eight bills per year, not per session. That means members of the 60th Legislature were allowed eight bills last year and eight more this year.

Certain measures do not count toward that limit. Bills carried over from the previous year remain active without using one of the eight slots, and repeal bills that simply remove existing law without adding new language are also excluded.

Because of those exceptions, Archer said he currently has 11 bills in play. Eight are newly introduced, three are repeal bills, and he is also carrying several “shell bills,” which act as placeholders in case unforeseen issues arise during the session.

“As chairman, it’s good practice,” Archer said. “If something big pops up, like an oil and gas issue nobody could have foreseen before the deadline, you’ve got a vehicle ready to go.”

While shell bills can impact a lawmaker’s statistics, Archer said that is not a concern for him.

“I don’t care about stats,” he said. “Good shooters keep shooting.”

As lawmakers prepare to return to the Capitol, Archer said his priority is being ready to address both anticipated and unexpected energy issues once the session is underway.
