Stories From Jerry Nine

by: Jerry Nine – Woodward, Okla.

Last week I headed to the cattle sale at El Reno. Yes, I was in a hurry like always. My bank in Alva also has a bank in Okeene, so I had a check that I needed to run by the bank and still get there before the sale started. So I turned at Watonga and headed east finally reaching Okeene and like before, I came to the stop light and went a block north to circle around the night drop. Just then I looked up at the building that read Kingfisher. Of course when I tell that story at breakfast the next morning they all want to put me in their bracket - old farts. They laughed and said it will only get worse. No, I am not in their bracket.

Well I probably shouldn't tell this story right behind that one but oh well, who cares. I was needing some grass hay to mix with some ensilage, so I texted a friend and asked him if he had any grass. We made a deal and Mike said he would deliver it the next day. So I texted my hired hand and said, "Mike will have 3 loads of grass there tomorrow". He texted, "This is Mike, No I'm not slipping let's just say fat fingers that sounds better". I had to have something to say back to Mike, so I said, "Well I figured you had forgotten".

We went lower for two weeks in the cattle auctions but with $4.00 to $5.00 cwt up the first 2 days of last week buyers were back swinging. Interestingly enough the previous week when they were cheaper, most sales were short 4 or 5 buyers, but out money back on where they can give more they were all back.

Maybe some buyers should look and see if there is anything still hanging there.

Guess what, I went to the Okeene bank again and they moved Kingfisher back where it should be.

In church they have the little kids come to the front of the church for children's church. The lady telling the story asked the kids what Jesus' mothers name was. One little girl said "Mary". The teacher said "That is very good". She said "What was Jesus' fathers name?". A little boy said "Verge". She said "Verge, where did you get that?". He said "They always say Verge and Mary".

Editor's note: The views expressed here are the author's own and do not represent the view of The Penny News. Jerry Nine, Woodward, Oklahoma, is a lifetime cattleman who grew up on his family's ranch near Slapout, Oklahoma.

SINCE 1945

When Red Angus came from Scotland to America, the Beckton family started building a better cow for the hard country of Wyoming.

Sparse pasture. Tough winters. No room for weak cattle.

They kept the herd closed. No outside bulls. No shortcuts.

Eighty years later, the results are proven.

For 25+ years Red River Red Angus has bred Beckton cattle producing only one calf ever over 70 pounds at birth.

High percentage Choice and Prime carcasses.

Up to 30% savings on pasture, feed, and hay.

Same grass. Same ground. Beckton genetics.

Up to 60% more profit.

Cotton Boll Motel Sign Lights Up Route 66 Once Again in Canute

March 23, 2026 • Canute, OK — A piece of Route 66 history came back to life Saturday night as a large crowd gathered in Canute to witness the re-lighting of the historic Cotton Boll Motel sign.

The neon sign, dark for decades, was officially turned on again following a full restoration, drawing residents and visitors eager to see the landmark glow once more along the Mother Road.

The Cotton Boll Motel, originally built in 1960, closed in the mid-1980s and has since been converted into a private residence. While the motel itself no longer operates, its iconic roadside sign has remained a symbol of Canute’s Route 66 heritage.

The restoration was made possible through a broader revitalization effort. In April 2025, the Town of Canute was awarded nearly $700,000 through the Oklahoma Route 66 Revitalization Grant program. The funding supports multiple projects aimed at preserving and enhancing historic landmarks in the community.

In addition to restoring the Cotton Boll Motel sign, the grant includes repainting the Washita Motel sign, making cosmetic improvements to the town’s DX and Texaco gas stations, and renovating the Village of Canute building into a tourism center and artisan market.

New Spring Admission Option Expands SWOSU Nursing Program

March 23, 2026 • Weatherford, OK – Southwestern Oklahoma State University (SWOSU) will soon be able to admit more nursing students each year after adding a spring admission option to its Traditional Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) program for the first time in program history.

Beginning in January 2027, the program will admit students in both the fall and spring semesters. Until now, SWOSU Nursing has accepted new students only once per year in the fall. The additional admission cycle will allow the department to gradually expand enrollment and open the program to more qualified applicants preparing to enter Oklahoma’s healthcare workforce.

Applications for the first spring cohort are currently open and will remain available through July 1, 2026.

Demand for the program has remained strong in recent years, with more qualified applicants than the department has had space to admit. The new admission cycle will allow SWOSU to gradually grow the program while providing more opportunities for students seeking careers in nursing and helping address healthcare workforce needs across the state.

The expansion became possible through renovations to the third floor of Parker Hall, a space that had previously gone unused. The renovation was completed through deferred maintenance funding provided by the Oklahoma Legislature and created additional classroom and learning space needed to support a larger nursing program.

The updated floor includes three new classrooms, student study areas, a large conference room, and a lactation room that provides private space for mothers. The project also allows the department to convert portions of its existing facilities into additional simulation space. Simulation training is a key part of nursing education, giving students opportunities to practice patient care skills and clinical decision-making before entering hospital and community healthcare settings.

“This expansion allows SWOSU Nursing to admit more qualified students who are ready to serve our communities,” said Elissa Saunders, Chair of the SWOSU Department of Nursing. By thoughtfully expanding our Traditional BSN program, we are creating more opportunities for students while supporting the growing need for nurses across western Oklahoma and the state.”

Interim President Joel Kendall said the Parker Hall renovation demonstrates how deferred maintenance funding is helping strengthen high-demand academic programs while improving campus facilities.

“The renovation of Parker Hall allows SWOSU to expand opportunities for students entering a critical workforce field,” said Kendall. “We are grateful to members of the Oklahoma Legislature for their support of deferred maintenance funding, which allowed the university to restore and repurpose an important part of campus while helping strengthen Oklahoma’s healthcare workforce pipeline.”
